

QUADRANT TRAY

1. The Quadrant Tray is used for single, adjacent or opposing crowns and incorporates only a few teeth in the impression.

2. The lingual arm (A) is the only adjustable portion and can be moved to widen or narrow the arch depending on the anatomical considerations.
3. Once the arm (A) is positioned, place the insert into the tray (widest portion of insert to outside) and wax into position lightly.
4. When placing impression material, make sure it gets into the insert slits to increase retention.
